FROM THE PRESIDENT

Our staff once again accomplished many remarkable things in 2021, proving that whether they are working in an office, at home, or in a field or forest, their enthusiasm for our work knows no bounds. We completed 14 acquisition projects to preserve a total of 584 acres, including additions to our Ramapo Mountain, Nancy Conger West Brook, and Yards Creek preserves. We secured three farmland easements, including the 224-acre Murlan Farm in Frelinghuysen. We helped acquire the 74-acre former right-of-way for a planned expansion of Route 24 in Hanover, which will now become a nature preserve and hiking trail. We also assisted the Ramapough Lenape Indian Nation in establishing a new land trust and accessing land stewardship funding.

Thanks to the generosity of our members and friends, we were able to set up new endowments for the Nancy Conger West Brook and South Branch preserves, which will generate annual income to help us maintain these two gems. Our partner City Green completed an amazing third year at South Branch Preserve, growing 52,789 pounds of fresh organic vegetables and donating 3,912 pounds of the harvest to local food pantries. The community garden plots sold out once again, and gardeners donated 385 pounds of what they grew to local food pantries.

Our amazing planning staff completed 10 open space, farmland preservation, and environmental resource inventory plans, and they were excited to help Edison educate residents about an Open Space Trust Fund referendum, which was overwhelmingly approved! We were delighted to host the 12th annual Gray Cup Classic, which brought in $110,000 to acquire and care for new properties. We updated and redesigned The Conservancy’s website, developed a great new video overview of our work, and dramatically increased our social media following. We renewed our national accreditation to ensure we continue to meet the highest national standards for ethical practices and technical excellence as a land trust. The Conservancy also doubled its scholarship program, awarding $30,000 total to four students, and hosted 10 interns as well.

While this was not the easiest of years, thanks to our members, supporters and friends, it was certainly a memorable one.

We purchased an important tract of land in West Milford that adds 43 acres to our preserve there, allowing us to move forward with plans for the next phase of restoration on the West Brook. The preserve now totals 241 acres.

This new property contains a pond and waterways that feed the West Brook. The newly acquired land has been seriously impacted by manmade changes to the landscape and will require significant remediation. These efforts will build on the work we've done so far in this area, improving the ecosystem for resident plants and animals, protecting the wetlands from further degradation, and making them more resilient to flooding and drought.

In 2020, we redirected the brook back into its original stream bed and reflooded the wetlands for this major source of clean water for the Wanaque Reservoir, which 3.5 million New Jersey residents rely on for drinking. The benefits of this natural open space for local residents is magnified by the importance of protecting waters so critical to our state’s urban populations.

In 2021, we preserved 584 acres in 14 acquisitions, bringing our grand total to 28,806 acres.

We added 57 acres to Yards Creek Preserve, part of the William Penn Foundation’s Delaware River Watershed Initiative.
Volunteers helped us plant hundreds of native seedlings in the pollinator meadow at South Branch Preserve.

We established the Nancy Conger Stewardship Endowment to provide annual funds to care for the land and make it safe and welcoming for visitors.

In the spring, we planted 1,000 native seedlings in the pollinator meadow with the help of staff, interns, and volunteers.

All 145 plots at the community garden were sold out, and members collected 385 pounds of food from their own harvests to donate to local food pantries. The community garden has donated 3,431 pounds of fresh produce over the past seven years.

We also launched a campaign to ensure we have the resources to care for this land into the future. Donors to the Forest of Hope can choose from a variety of trees—oak, maple, poplar, pawpaw, or persimmon—that will be planted in the reforestation area of the preserve. Donations will be marked with a sign on site as well as a dedicated webpage. All gifts will be placed in the Jason Andris Stewardship Fund and will be used exclusively to care for South Branch Preserve.

An $80,000 grant from Green Acres and the New Jersey Corporate Wetlands Partnership will be used to remove a dam on the stream that flows into the West Brook, plant wetland plants, remove invasives, take down a dilapidated barn, and reforest the barnyard.

On the heels of the preserve’s grand opening in 2020, we installed a sign describing the preserve and the restoration project we completed there. The sign also includes a map of the trail with a QR code and an acknowledgement of Nancy Conger.

We also installed new stream monitors in the West Brook to monitor the quality, quantity, and temperature of the water in this critical stream.

With so much work ahead of us at this preserve, we established the Nancy Conger Stewardship Endowment to provide annual funds to care for the land and make it safe and welcoming for visitors.

In October, our staff hiked out to the sites where volunteers planted 575 trees in 2020 to check how they had fared one year later. The seedlings, which stabilize these wetlands in the Delaware River Watershed, had a surprisingly high 70-80% survival rate.

For 37 years, The Land Conservancy of New Jersey has been awarding scholarships to residents of New Jersey pursuing degrees in environmental science, natural resource management, conservation, park administration, and related fields. This program rewards environmental scholars who plan to pursue careers protecting the natural resources of their home state, and has disbursed over $300,000 since its inception.

Thanks to a generous gift from the Rochkind-Wagner Foundation, we were able to double the number of scholarships awarded for the next three years. This year there were more applicants than ever, so the competition was tough. The four winners selected to receive scholarships of $7,500 in 2021 were Andreia Resende (Montclair State), Danielle Dyson (Stockton), Kenneth Hamel (Montclair State), and Julia Galayda (American Military University). Congratulations to the winners!

We’ve given our internship program a glow-up with two new full-year planning fellowships to individuals with a graduate degree who are starting careers in conservation. TLCNJ will be sharing valuable expertise, technology, and relationships for a solid year to benefit these fellows, and in turn they give us a boost with their energy and fresh perspectives. Rachel Hammelman and Hiyabu Habtemichael are the inaugural class of Land Conservancy fellows. They’re both sharp and enthusiastic, terrific to work with, and headed for great things.

Students are an integral part of The Land Conservancy’s work, and we are proud to offer interns a meaningful work experience that expands both their résumés and their perspectives. Each year, one outstanding intern or planning fellow is chosen to acknowledge the significant work they have done for the organization. This year Hiyabu Habtemichael was chosen for this honor.

Hiyabu’s dedication to The Land Conservancy, and wanting to do the best he can possibly do, is the reason he was selected as our 2021 Richard M. Sargent Intern. Hiyabu makes sure the job gets done, and done well. He is not afraid to explore new areas and take on new projects, meeting with our farmers and recreation enthusiasts all over New Jersey to talk to them about planning and land preservation. It is a pleasure to have him work with us and our planning team.
We completed 10 open space, farmland preservation, and environmental resource inventory plans. Our end of fiscal year campaign brought in 40 new members and raised $230,000 for operations and acquisitions.

MUNICIPAL SERVICES

Our planning department worked on 18 different open space and farm plans this year, all the way from Vernon up in Sussex County down to Franklin Township in Gloucester County. These towns run the gamut from small to large, agricultural to industrial, and their needs are all different. But what all of these projects have in common is that they will improve the quality of life for their residents and communities.

It’s especially gratifying to see so many of the entities we work with receive funding from the state to leverage their contributions. We helped many of these communities access Green Acres funding. In addition, The Land Conservancy received $1 million to use for future land acquisition, as well as $60,000 for the Nancy Conger West Brook Preserve restoration project.

EDISON OPEN SPACE REFERENDUM

In the November 2 election, Edison Township gave residents an opportunity to create a stable source of funding for parks and recreation by establishing an open space trust fund. The township enlisted The Land Conservancy to educate voters and get the word out. In densely populated Edison, green spaces are precious, and industry has claimed much of the scenic property.

A fund to improve and expand parks and recreation seems like a no-brainer, but since this measure came with a small tax increase, voter education was essential.

Thanks to a team of TLCNJ staff and dedicated community groups, the message was widely distributed and well received. The ballot question passed by a comfortable margin.

SPECIAL EVENTS

COMMUNITY EVENTS

As part of our year-long 40th anniversary celebration—and to offer some relief from the anxiety and isolation of this long pandemic—we launched a slate of community events to encourage people to spend time out in nature, connecting with each other safely and learning new things.

In July, we learned about the importance of chestnut trees. In October, there was a children’s day celebrating the autumnal equinox where kids looked for gnomes in a scavenger hunt, made magic wands, and snacked on local apples. Many people came out for volunteer days to plant native seedlings in the pollinator fields at South Branch Preserve and to clean up decades of illegal dumping at Stag Hill in Mahwah.

These community events have been so successful that we’ll be continuing them in 2022. Our aim is to raise awareness about the preserves we own and care for, reminding people that nature is for everyone to enjoy and learn from.

THE 12TH ANNUAL GRAY CUP

Our biggest annual fundraiser returned to the renowned golf course at Hamilton Farm after a hiatus in 2020. Eighty golfers assembled for a noon shotgun start. Some foursomes were seriously competitive, while others took a more casual approach—but everyone had fun out on the course. One golfer came within inches of landing the nearly impossible hole-in-one challenge. At the end of a hot day, after cocktails and dinner, the event raised $110,000 to support the Split Rock Mountain project and other land preservation efforts. Guests went home knowing they were supporting a good cause and having fun in the process.

CITY GREEN FARM

Our partner City Green completed an amazing third year growing 52,789 pounds of fresh organic vegetables at City Green Farm at South Branch Preserve. They exceeded last year’s totals and donated 3,912 pounds to The Conservancy for distribution to local food pantries. As the pandemic increased food insecurity, this partnership became more relevant and needed than it has ever been. City Green, being excellent at what they do, has adjusted their farm plan to accommodate specific, pandemic-driven needs, as they were identified.
